

Dr. Markus Wiendieck

Dr. Markus Wiendieck is an entrepreneur, investor and consultant with many years of experience in the fields of energy, financing and M&A consulting. He founded and managed the Erdwärme Bayern Group for over a decade, which conceived, developed and implemented projects in the field of deep geothermal energy. Prior to this, he worked in London and New York as an expert in M&A and corporate finance for well-known international investment banks and financial institutions and advised major companies on strategic transactions such as takeovers and capital market financing. Today, Dr. Wiendieck works as a business angel and investor and manages a family office.

Dr. Wiendieck studied economics at the University of Heidelberg, at the HEC in Paris and at the University of Cologne. There he graduated with a degree in economics and a doctorate in financial theory.